Three weeks ago, I met Mohammed at his house with his family, Grace, his wife, and three beautiful children. Mohammed is on the police force here in Sunyani, Ghana. Peter, my convert and soul winning partner, and I witnessed to Mohammed. It was a great soul winning experience for both of us. As I explained the gospel to Mohammed, he began to understand. Mohammed was on the verge of trusting Christ as his Saviour, when he paused and called for his wife to enter into the conversation. He proceeded to ask his wife if she was able to hear the conversation. Her response shocked me since she was a short distance away. She said, "yes". She continued to say that there are a few things that I am shocked to hear. I have been taught all my life that if you sin, you can't go to heaven, she said. What I've just heard you say today to my husband, makes sense. Mohammed at this point bowed his head and trusted Christ as his personal Saviour. Unfortunately, Grace was not ready. A few days have passed and Grace was on my conscience. So I asked my wife to accompany me to Mohammed and Grace's home. With a little review, Grace that day trusted Christ. After a little chat with Grace, she began to tell me an encouraging story. She tells me, "My husband has not stopped talking about the day you first came. I have been waiting for you these past three days. Thank you for coming. My husband has said, He has decided that we would join your church." There is another twist to this story. Mohammed is not only on the Sunyani police force, but he is also the bodyguard to the Regional Minister of Brong Ahafo, who is very influential governmental person in our area. Pray that through Mohammed, we will be able to talk to and witness to the minister and other governmental leaders in Ghana. Pray for more labourers. Pray that God would send more families to our church.
